gender is a choice is a remarkable book that thoughtfully demystifies gender discrimination it shows the underlying causes of discrimination which lie deep in our cultures based on the human rights perspective of equality and dignity ms mukasa reaffirms that we are all born equal without gender bias or prejudice and we all share a propensity to learn grow and maximize our innate potential to lead meaningful happy lives however societies have views based on cultural norms attitudes and beliefs that lead to unequal gender relations of power as a result many women and girls suffer this highly educational book highlights the key gender concepts and gives them meaning through a practical family portrait at the end ms mukasa decisively affirms that despite powerful socialization processes gender injustice can be overcome the key issue to transform is the traditional socialization process the main tool is to create awareness of the embedded negative aspects concerning women s and men s relationships it calls upon men and women to appreciate that the current gender relations of power are unnatural and unacceptable they are man made and can be dismantled using our agency to make the right choices women s disempowerment can be disrupted and gender justice can be promoted this book is relevant to all people since gender discrimination is universal and has universally negative consequences gender discrimination must therefore be disrupted everywhere every time by everyone however ms mukasa makes her own choice to focus on the african gender context and the audience whose culture she understands best the women of resolved return to tell us their stories the familiar names lorelei amity grenata corinne we hear from all of them the details of their lives but the other women in the fortress are also given a voice for the first time in their lives they will not be silenced any longer a companion book to resolved this book continues to explore the lives of the women who dared to risk everything for freedom freedom from dull routines freedom from abuse freedom from being property of men for the first time someone listens someone cares and they are ready to talk stories range from the heartbreaking to the heartwarming but one thing ties all these women together dreams that have been stifled and can finally be spoken this book focuses on families and their changes in taiwan and china traditional notions of what constitutes a family have been changing in china taiwan and other asian countries the chapters in this book provide interesting methodological and substantive contributions to the discourse on family and social change in chinese societies they also underscore the implications of the various social changes in chinese families written by chinese and western scholars they provide an unprecedented overview of what is known about the effects of social change on chinese families one might think that defining a family is an easy task because the family is so significant to society and is universal the family is the first place we learn culture norms values and gender roles families exist in all societies throughout the world but their constitution differs in the past several decades there have been many changes in the family in taiwan and china for instance whereas in the west we use a bilineal system of descent in which descent is traced through both the mother s side and the father s side of the family in many parts of china descent is patrilineal although this is changing and china and taiwan are starting to assume a family constitution similar to that in the west this and other issues are discussed in great detail in this book indeed it is the very nature of the differences that motivated the writing of this book on changing families in taiwan and china the chapters in part i the family in taiwan and china focus on the basic family issues in taiwan and china that provide the groundwork for many of the chapters that follow chapter 1 is about the distribution of resources in the family in taiwan chapter 2 focuses on filial piety and the autonomous development of adolescents in the taiwanese family and chapter 3 explores the important issue of family poverty in taiwan chapter 4 moves away from taiwan and looks at several issues of family growth and change in hong kong noting the interesting similarities and differences between hong kong and china part ii issues of marriage the family and fertility in taiwan and china focuses specifically on marriage family and fertility in chapter 5 the authors discuss the relationships between marital status socioeconomic status and the subjective well being among women in hong kong and taiwan chapter 6 describes patterns of sexual activity in china and the united states chapter 7 considers gender imbalances in taiwan and their impact on the marriage market chapter 8 also focuses on taiwan and examines the effects of mothers attitudes on daughters interaction with their mothers in law chapter 9 compares female and male fertility trends and changes in taiwan part iii children and the family in east asia and in western countries consists of comparative studies of the family and children chapter 10 examines the dynamics of grandparents caring for children in china chapter 11 explores family values and parent child interaction in taiwan chapter 12 examines the significant amount of diversity among families in contemporary taiwan chapter 13 describes adolescent development in taiwan chapter 14 examines the impact of son preference on fertility in china south korea and the united states and chapter 15 explores the determinants of intergenerational support in taiwan the final chapter in our book the only chapter in part iv the family and the future in taiwan examines the future of the family in taiwan with respect especially to the marriage market and aged dependency in the netherlands girls and young women are increasingly active in women only kickboxing the general assumption in the netherlands and in western europe more broadly is that women s sport is a form of secular feminist empowerment muslim women s participation would then exemplify the incongruence of islam with the modern secular nation state punching back provides a detailed ethnographic study that contests this view by showing that young muslim women who kickbox establish agentive selves by playing with gender norms challenging expectations and living out their religious subjectivities new zealand the wonder country that is the title of margaret mcclures book published in auckland 2004 in her book mcclure describes the fascinating landmarks and tourist sites of new zealand in contrast to that lee tamahori designs a rather sober picture of new zealand and its aboriginal citizens decendants respectively the maori with his film adaption of allan duffs once were warriors already in 1990 duffs novel was traded as highly controversial and bestselling tamahoris adaption of this novel won more than 15 international film awards the seven man family is about to collapse since the father jake the muss heke is alcohol addicted and once again lost his job at the beginning of the movie since eighteen years he constantly beats up his wife beth heke when he is drunk although the two youngest children seem to be untouched by the miserable family background the eldest son nig joins a gang his younger brother marc also known as boogie becomes re offended when he is caught prising a car again in the course of his misbehaviour he is sent to an approved school just the oldest daughter grace seems to have a future since she succeeds in school and writes short stories however as it ought to turn out the family is shattered by the rape of grace and her suicide not until its revealed that a friend of jake bully who calls himself grace uncle raped grace beth draws the conclusion to leave jake the movie was published in germany under the name die letzte kriegerin with a distinct focus on the main character beth heke it was often discussed whether this titel fits the movie and hits the essence of the film

this volume represents the first book length study of attitudes toward women in revolutionary france based on extensive research in the libraries and archives of paris the book examines the impact of the revolution s ideology of liberty and equality when the men of 1789 wrote the declaration of the rights of man they were thinking in terms of man the male not man the species but there were some men and women who interpreted it in terms of all humanity the outrage of these individuals over what they perceived as a discrepancy between the principles and the practice of the revolution motivated them to produce some of the most unhesitating declarations of sexual equality that had ever been seen in history dr proctor demonstrates however these claims of equality were not simply ignored they were categorically rejected by the mainstream revolutionaries the book examines the typical 18th century concept of women as alien and in some ways inferior beings and traces the striking continuity between pre revolutionary and revolutionary thought on the subject against this background proctor addresses a number of important questions how widespread was the support for a movement in favor of sexual equality what was the response of the revolution itself to demands for equal rights for women how did the men of the french revolution justify the contradiction between their suppression of women and the ideologies for which they claimed to be fighting to arrive at the answers an abundance of material produced in france in the 18th century is identified and analyzed and cited in an extensive bibliography of original sources what finally emerges is not only a clearer picture of the french revolution and its attitude toward women but a deeper understanding of the ambivalent attitudes toward women that still affect our society today this book will be an important resource for courses in european history the french revolution and women s studies as well as a valuable reference for college university and public libraries
